we pride ourselves on being a community school big enough to match the best - small enough to care

29 August 2014

From the Principal's Desk

Kia Ora

On Tuesday, our Kapa Haka group attended the Polyfest at Stadium Southland and this group need to be acknowledged for an amazing performance of waiata and haka which culminated in a lovely rendition of 'Hallelujah'. The obvious pride in their effort was clearly evident and rewarding to the great number of supporters in attendance and thanks must go to our staff member Bex Brown for the growth in this group.

All the very best to the individuals and teams heading off for tournament week on Sunday. Our Senior 'A' netball team will be in Invercargill at Stadium Southland participating in the South Island Secondary School's tournament. At the Event Centre in Queenstown, the Under 15 boys rugby team take on the other co-ed schools in a tournament that Menzies have historically done well in. Up in Christchurch, the girls soccer team will be attending national tournament and this young side will want to show everyone how much they have improved over the past few years. Up in Wellington, Vinnie Rayner will be participating in the national Age Group and Secondary Schools Indoor Bowls championships and Lachlan Scott will join with Gore High School to attend the South Island Ice Hockey tournament in Dunedin. We remind all students travelling that they have a responsibility to represent the school to the best of their ability in all situations and to give nothing but their best effort in all matches. Good luck and enjoy the experience.

Senior students are reminded that exams are coming up and study needs to now become a habit. For these students this is the beginning of the run up to NCEA external exams starting in October and best use must now be made of every opportunity to prepare for this occasion. Staff offer tutorials and students need to be regular in attending these if they want to lift their understanding and grade potential.

We had a wonderful assembly on Wednesday afternoon with a fantastic performance from our school band, the presentation of awards for PB4L achievement slips, the Westpac Mask Making Competition and to Abigail Visser for her success in the Lions' Speechmaking Competition. Jack Fellows-Prynne, our international student on a rugby scholarship, also thanked the school for his 5 months with us, as he heads home this weekend. What stole the show though was a speech from the heart to the school by Year 7 student Rory Brunton. Rory has been working in class to draw an analogy between the movie 'Shrek' and the values that can be learnt for students here at school. It was a truly lovely moment and for the school to stand and applaud was a fitting reflection of how our students want things to be for all young people. Below is a copy of Rory's speech.

"Sometimes I don't feel safe. Sometimes at school I am called names. Sometimes I'm called hopeless and sometimes I'm called stupid. It makes me sad because they are putting me down, saying I can't do certain stuff. Actually, I'm not stupid and I'm not hopeless. I think really well, but I'm not always able to say things as clearly or as quickly as I think. I also have trouble reading and writing but I am not stupid. They are judging me from the outside and don't they know that you don't judge a book by its cover? Just like Shrek the ogre, I have layers.

Good morning students and Mrs Cowley. Today you are going to know that underneath my small, green polar fleece, I am a 'many layered' person. I'm not an ogre like Shrek but I am like him. I am kind but you might only see my small and quiet outside. I am inventive, I am an excellent creator of welded metal, but you might only think I play around with junk. I am gentle, I don't have to be loud and rough, this doesn't make me a wimp.

Shrek the ogre was kind to donkey when he was too scared to cross the swing bridge, he looked like he was joking with donkey but he was kindly helping him get to the other side. Sometimes you have to be cruel to be kind. Shrek the ogre was inventive like me, he was able to make a shower out of a log, mud and string. He built his house into a giant swamp stump, he didn't destroy the trees, he worked with the swamp not against it. Finally Shrek was gentle, just like me. He patted donkey on the head, he didn't swipe him. He made a balloon for Fiona out of a frog because he wanted to give her a present. He made a bridge for Fiona to walk over because he was respectful and treated her like a lady.

By now, I'm sure you will all know me better and will agree that Shrek the ogre and myself, Rory, are very alike, so keep peeling the layers back when you meet a person, you never know who you will find."

Westpac Mask Competition

Results for the Westpac secondary school mask competition have been released. Menzies College was well represented with students Abbey Young and Jade Maxwell being awarded first and second prize respectively. Adding to our success was a highly commended which was awarded to Rose Beker. The judges said that their interpretation of the theme 'local' was impressive. Our students have done exceptionally well to place so highly against the high calibre of entries this year. Murray Heath a representative of Westpac, presented these awards to the individual students at assembly. A huge congratulations to all students for their efforts involved in this competition, it is a great reflection of the talent within our school.

Mathematics Department

Last week was all about mathematics at Menzies. We organised mathematics activities each day as part of 'Maths Week'. House points were up for grabs as each day whanau groups battled it out. We had different year levels competing on Monday - Wednesday with a daily maths quiz. Then on Thursday and Friday, each whanau sent their 4 finest maths students to the hall for a practical challenge. Over these 2 days, students had to make a bridge out of newspaper and sellotape. Everyone started with 100 points and a point was deducted for every newspaper page used in the design. Groups scored an extra 50 points if the bridge supported a can of coke and another 50 points if the bridge/platform collapsed when a second can was added. With few rules, it was interesting to see the ideas that students had. Many students were able to think outside the box to successfully gain a large number of points for their whanau group and house. The overall points for the week are below.

SMAC Maths (for Year 7-10) is coming up in the final week of the term. We will be spending some time in class next week to help students to understand how this competition works, how to work as a team and to select our team members. We are hoping to send 1 Year 7 team, and 2 teams from Years 8-10.

For our seniors, we are absolutely focussed on helping students gain as many credits (in the highest grade possible) as they can. For some, this is making sure they are seeing success in internals, for others the focus is on using school exams as a stepping stone to getting the grade they deserve in their NCEA externals. With limited class time left, the heat is really on. Tutorials are on every Wednesday lunchtime and at other times by request, if possible.

Here is a question I posed to staff last week:

Explain how you can use a knife to cut a cake (a normal, round cake) into 8 equal pieces with only 3 cuts.

Year 10 Business Studies trip to Stadium Southland

Last Friday, 22 August our class travelled into Invercargill and visited Stadium Southland as part of their unit on Producers, Production and Resources. The main aim of the visit was to see how the Stadium operates from a business perspective; in particular its history, finances, employee roles and its dramatic recovery from the collapse of the roof 4 years ago.

Nigel Skelt, the General Manager generously gave up his time to give us a tour of the Stadium which the students were captivated by. Following this they had a session on the Clip n Climb Climbing wall which all thoroughly enjoyed. As usual our students were exemplary in their behaviour and conduct and upheld the 'Menzies Way'. Well done team!

Many thank to the staff at Stadium Southland, Sue Dynes for her assistance and to Doc for the use of his vehicle.

Super Seniors

This month we remembered the 100th anniversary of the outbreak of World War 1. It's hard for us to quantify the impact of this global event on New Zealand and this term the Level 2 English class have been studying the 'War Poets'. We've enjoyed some thoughtful and frank conversations around this topic. Perhaps one of the most important learning points that we've realised is that we do, at times, take certain things for granted. And with this in mind, I hope that our seniors do not take their own access to education too lightly. Term 3, in many ways, has been reasonably settled thus far. However, from this week onwards 'life' becomes interesting. Between now and the end of term our seniors will face: Tournament week, senior exams and our second round of parent-teacher Interviews. Many are also involved in the school production. Our Year 13 students are also busy filling out scholarship applications, applications for tertiary study and/or halls of residence. As their teachers, we are now also beginning the process of writing referee reports for them. With all this in mind, we strongly encourage our seniors to remain organised during this the 'business end' of the academic year. We also encourage our seniors to attend the parent-teacher interviews along with you, their parents/caregivers and see them as a way of taking control of their own future. As always, we do wish our sporting teams every success and hope that amongst all the excitement of competition they manage to squeeze in some study. As with everything, preparation is the key to success. Here are some study tips to help our super seniors prepare themselves thoroughly:

1. Learning is individual. Make the most of your own potential. The qualifications you are enrolled in are personal to you – it does not matter what your friend is/is not 'sitting'. What matters is that you are on-track to achieve your own long-term goals.
2. Manage your time. This is so important. Study is easier if you are organised. Note deadlines for assessment in an obvious place – some students have a small whiteboard on which they note key dates. Others use the family calendar or their mobile phone to remind them of important dates. Now is the time to sit-down and organise how many weeks you have before the examinations and what you need to achieve between now and then.
3. Manage your notes. Successful students do not have books with pages falling out, or notes that are not stuck into workbooks. You need to manage the information that is given to you each lesson – what system works best for you?
4. Take good care of yourself. There are four key areas to be mindful of: sleep (eight hours a night is a good average), exercise (2-3 times a week). This makes you better able to ward off coughs and colds, makes you stronger and releases endorphins into your system, eat a good diet (a recent UCLA study noted that diets high in sugar significantly hampered the brains ability to synthesise new information and recall old information) and finally – drink plenty of water. Hydration is key to effective study and health.
5. Work really hard! Needless to say, most internationally recognised sportsmen and women, most published authors, most successful musicians didn't get to where they are now by fluke or by a one-off achievement. They've worked hard. They've probably sacrificed other activities in favour of fine-tuning their art.

This week, we have also introduced a 'mentoring programme' into the senior school. This programme is aimed at helping a selection of our students (approximately 18) achieve to their potential. If your son/daughter has agreed to participate in this programme, you will receive notification in the mail. Selected students have been asked to nominate a teacher or staff member they feel comfortable working with. The response from the students and teachers has been awesome. I hope that this programme will have positive effects on their learning and overall achievement.

During assembly this week, our 'English Import' Jack bid us a fond farewell. Jack has slotted into our school with ease. And, much like his predecessor Ben, it seems as though he is well and truly part of the furniture now. It will be sad to see Jack return to the 'motherland' but we wish him all the very best in his future endeavours. If you have any questions or concerns about students in Year 11-13, please don't hesitate to contact us at school.
